

IN THE HIGH COURT OF MALAYA IN KUALA LUMPUR
(COMMERCIAL DIVISION)
IN THE FEDERAL TERRITORY OF MALAYSIA
SUIT NO: 22IP-8-03/2016

BETWEEN

PRISM BERHAD ... PLAINTIFF

MEASAT BROADCAST NETWORK ... DEFENDANT
SYSTEM SDN. BHD.

JUDGMENT

(Court enclosure no. 44)

A. Parties

1. The plaintiff company (Plaintiff) has been given by the Controller of Copyright (Controller) under s 27A of the Copyright Act 1987 (CA) a written declaration no. LB2012004 dated 1.7.2013 that the Plaintiff is a “licensing body” (Controller’s Declaration).
2. The defendant company (Defendant) owns and operates “All-Asian Satellite Television and Radio Operator” (ASTRO).

B. Issues

3. This case raises the following novel issues:

(1) under CA, is there a difference between -

(a) copyright,

(c) right of a “performer” (defined in s 3 CA) to claim for “equitable remuneration” under s 16B CA (Equitable Remuneration Right);

(2) whether performers can claim for “licence fees” from Defendant for ASTRO’s use of sound recording for commercial purposes (Defendant’s Use). If performers have a right to claim for licence fees for Defendant’s Use, can such a right be assigned by performers to Plaintiff?;

(3) whether Plaintiff can claim for licence fees for the Defendant’s Use based on –

(a) the Plaintiff’s “licensing scheme”; and/or

(b) agreements entered into by performers and Plaintiff (Performers’ Agreements With Plaintiff);

- (4) whether performers can claim for equitable remuneration for Defendant's Use when –
- (a) there is no contract between Defendant and performers regarding equitable remuneration to be paid by Defendant to performers for Defendant's Use; and
 - (b) the performers have not applied to the Copyright Tribunal (CT) under s 16B(3A) CA to determine the amount of equitable remuneration payable by Defendant to performers for Defendant's Use; and
- (5) if performers have an Equitable Remuneration Right against Defendant for Defendant's Use -
- (a) can Equitable Remuneration Right be assigned by performers to Plaintiff?; and
 - (b) if Equitable Remuneration Right has not been assigned by performers to Plaintiff, can Plaintiff commence this suit against the Defendant in the Plaintiff's own name (This Action)?

C. Background

4. As a user of musical works for ASTRO's programmes, the Defendant is already paying "licence fees" to Music Authors' Copyright Protection Bhd. (MACP) and Public Performance Malaysia Sdn. Bhd. (PPM). MACP acts for composers and lyricists while PPM represents sound recording companies.
5. Recording Performers Malaysia Bhd. (RPM), like the Plaintiff, acts for performers.
6. Both RPM and Plaintiff had approached Defendant and requested the Defendant to pay to both RPM and Plaintiff (on behalf of performers) for Defendant's Use.
7. The Plaintiff had sent letters dated 6.6.2014 and 6.8.2014 which requested Defendant, among others, to pay to the Plaintiff in respect of Defendant's Use.
8. A "Pro Forma Invoice" dated 8.7.2014 had been sent by Plaintiff to Defendant for the latter to pay to the former a sum of RM7,277,325.00 as payment for "Annual Licence" fee. The Annual Licence fee claimed by the Plaintiff was computed based on 1.5% of the Defendant's advertising income of RM485,155,000.00.

9. By way of a letter dated 19.9.2014, Defendant informed Plaintiff of the following, among others:

(1) the Defendant had been discussing with RPM regarding the issue of equitable remuneration for performers; and

(2) the Defendant would prefer to deal with a “single collecting body” to ensure that the Defendant would not have to pay twice or more for Defendant’s Use. As such, the Defendant hoped that the Plaintiff would discuss with RPM with a view to “consolidating the existing collecting bodies” into a single society to eliminate the present confusion faced by, among others, Defendant.

10. The Plaintiff’s then solicitors, Messrs Sharif & Khoo (Messrs SK), sent a demand dated 2.4.2015 to the Defendant which, among others, stated that

(1) the Defendant had failed to obtain a licence from the Plaintiff and had infringed the Plaintiff’s right; and

(2) the Defendant should make “royalty payment” to the Plaintiff as stated in the Plaintiff’s Pro Forma invoice.

11. The Defendant’s solicitors, Messrs Wong & Partners, replied to Messrs SK’s demand and, among others, denied that the Plaintiff had any basis to sue the Defendant under CA.

D. This Action

12. In This Action, the Statement of Claim (SOC) pleaded, among others, as follows:

- (1) Performers' Agreement With Plaintiff have been concluded which authorize Plaintiff to, among others, grant licences and collect fees or royalties for the grant of such licences regarding public performance of performers' sound recordings;
- (2) with the Controller's Declaration, the Plaintiff is empowered to impose licence fees for Defendant's Use. The annual licence fee charged by Plaintiff is based on an international standard tariff practice of 1.5% of the Defendant's annual advertising profit;
- (3) the Defendant had failed to pay the Plaintiff's 2 Pro Forma invoices dated 8.7.2014 and 1.7.2015 which totaled RM15,427,929.00 (Sum);
and
- (4) the Plaintiff claimed the Sum to be paid by the Defendant with interest and costs.

E. Court enclosure no. 44 (This Application)

13. In This Application, the Defendant applied to strike out This Action on the following grounds:

(1) the Plaintiff does not have locus standi to commence This Action against the Defendant; and

(2) this court is not the proper forum to hear This Action.

14. The Defendant's learned counsel, Ms. Chew Kherk Ying, has submitted that the Plaintiff has no locus standi to maintain This Action on the following grounds:

(1) equitable remuneration is an "in personam" statutory right vested in a performer under s 16B CA and no other person. Accordingly, the right to equitable remuneration is personal to the performer and cannot be assigned to the Plaintiff;

(2) the Plaintiff has no authority to sue the Defendant on behalf of performers; and

(3) in the absence of a private bargain between the Defendant and performers to fix the payable quantum of equitable remuneration, such a quantum is to be determined by CT on the application by the performers.

15. Mr. M. Manoharan, the Plaintiff's learned counsel, resisted This Application on the following grounds, among others:

- (1) the Plaintiff has the locus standi to file This Action based on -
 - (a) Controller's Declaration and the Plaintiff's licensing scheme; and/or
 - (b) Performers' Agreements With Plaintiff;
- (2) performers' copyright in sound recordings can be assigned by the performers to the Plaintiff under s 27 CA;
- (3) the SOC had pleaded a reasonable cause of action by Plaintiff against Defendant based on the Controller's Declaration, Plaintiff's licensing scheme and Performers' Agreements With Plaintiff;
- (4) the SOC and the Plaintiff's affidavit (filed to oppose This Application) (Plaintiff's Affidavit) had raised issues which should be tried by this court. Hence, This Application should be dismissed with costs so as to enable this case to proceed to trial;
- (5) This Action does not constitute an abuse of court process and should not be struck out under O 18 r 19(1)(d) of the Rules of Court 2012 (RC);

(6) This Action is not a plain and obvious case for the court to strike out;
and

(7) the Plaintiff represents 1653 performers in Malaysia and should be allowed to prosecute This Action in the public interest and in the interest of performers.

A number of cases had been cited by Mr. Manoharan in support of the above contentions.

s 39A. Sections 36, 37, 38 and 39 shall apply mutatis mutandis to performers' right."

(emphasis added).

G. Copyright, Performers' Right and Equitable Remuneration Right

17. I accept Ms. Chew's contention that under CA, copyright, Performers' Right and Equitable Remuneration Right, are different from each other. This decision is premised on the following reasons:

- (1) copyright has been interpreted in s 3 CA to mean copyright under CA. According s 6 CA, copyright can only subsist as provided in CA. Section 13(1) CA explains the nature of copyright in, among others, sound recording. Performers' Right has been interpreted in s 3 CA to mean rights of a "performer" (defined widely in s 3 CA) under CA.

Section 16A(1) CA has provided for the nature of Performers' Right while Equitable Remuneration Right is provided in s 16B CA.

As CA has different provisions for copyright, Performers' Right and Equitable Remuneration Right, it is clear that Parliament has intended for copyright, Performers' Right and Equitable Remuneration Right to be different from each other under CA. In Lee Lee Cheng v Seow Peng Kwang [1960] 1 MLJ 1, at 3, Thomson CJ (as he then was) held in the Federation of Malaya's Court of Appeal that when different words are used by the legislature in a statute, those different words are intended by the legislature to refer to different matters;

- (2) copyright has been provided by Parliament from the inception of CA and its predecessor (Copyright Act 1969). Performers' Right and Equitable Remuneration Right were not provided when CA was first enacted and were only introduced by Copyright (Amendment) Act 2000 (Act A1082). Act A1082 came into force on 15.8.2000. Parliament amended ss 16A and 16B CA by way of Copyright (Amendment) Act 2012 (Act A1420);
- (3) there is a rebuttable statutory presumption that the legislature is deemed to know existing law, namely CA, when the legislature passed Acts A1082 and A1420 – please see Gopal Sri Ram JCA's judgment in the Court of Appeal case of Luggage Distributors (M) Sdn Bhd v Tan Hor Teng & Anor [1995] 1 MLJ 719, at 754. When Acts A1082 and A1420 were legislated by Parliament, if Parliament had wished to include Performers' Right and Equitable Remuneration Right as part of copyright, Parliament would have expressly done so in Acts A1082 and A1420. This was not however the case and instead, Parliament has provided for different provisions in CA for copyright, Performers' Right and Equitable Remuneration Right; and

(a) according to s 16A(1)(a) to (e) CA, Performers' Right concerns "performance". "Performance" is defined in s 3 CA to refer to "live" performances. Accordingly, Performer's Right involves live performances only.

Section 16B(1) CA provides for Equitable Remuneration Right when "sound recording is published for commercial purposes or a reproduction of such recording is publicly performed or used directly for broadcast or other communication to the public".

It is clear from ss 16A and 16B CA that Performers' Right and Equitable Remuneration Right involve different subject matter; and

(b) copyright infringement is provided in ss 36 to 39 CA. Act A1082 has introduced s 39A CA whereby ss 36 to 39 CA "shall apply mutatis mutandis" to Performers' Right. As such, by reason of s 39A CA, a suit for infringement of Performers' Right may be instituted under, among others, s 36(1) CA. By deliberately omitting Equitable Remuneration Right in s 39A CA, Parliament has intended by way of Act A1082 that no infringement action under s 36(1) CA can be commenced in respect of Equitable Remuneration Right. This shows another distinction under CA between Performers' Right and Equitable Remuneration Right.

H. Whether performers can claim for licence fees for Defendant's Use

18. This court is of the view that performers cannot charge licence fees from Defendant for Defendant's Use. This decision is based on the following reasons:

- (1) the Defendant's Use does not involve live performances under s 16A CA. As such, Defendant's Use does not concern Performers' Right under s 16A CA. The performers cannot therefore claim any licence fee or any other remuneration from Defendant for Performers' Right pursuant to s 16A CA;
- (2) according to s 3 CA, a "licence" means "a lawfully granted licence in writing, permitting the doing of an act controlled by copyright". Licences under s 3 CA refer to copyright only (not Equitable Remuneration Right). As explained in the above sub-paragraphs 17(1) to (3), under CA copyright is different from Equitable Remuneration Right. Consequently, performers cannot grant a "licence" within the meaning of s 3 CA (applicable to copyright only) and charge the Defendant for licence fees regarding Defendant's Use; and

(3) s 16B(1) CA has expressly provided that performers "shall" only be paid equitable remuneration (not licence fees) by users of sound recording. It will therefore be contrary to s 16B(1) CA to allow performers to charge the Defendant with licence fees for Defendant's Use.

19. As performers have no right to claim licence fees from Defendant for Defendant's Use (please see the above paragraph 18), no right to claim for licence fees from the Defendant, can be assigned by the performers to the Plaintiff.

I. Whether Plaintiff can claim for licence fees based on Licensing Scheme

20. This court finds that Plaintiff cannot claim for licence fees (for Defendant's Use) from Defendant based on the Plaintiff's licensing scheme because -

(1) by virtue of s 27A(1) CA, the Controller's Declaration only declared the Plaintiff as a "licensing body" (defined in s 3 CA). A licensing body may then operate a "licensing scheme" within the meaning in s 3 CA. According to s 3(a) CA, a licensing scheme sets out "classes of case in which the operator of the scheme, or the person on whose behalf he acts, is willing to grant copyright licences". It is therefore clear that the

Plaintiff's licensing scheme concerns "copyright licences" according to s 3(a) CA (not Equitable Remuneration Right); and

- (2) s 27AA(1) CA provides that a licensing scheme may only be operated "in relation to the copyright in any work". Accordingly, based on s 27AA(1) CA, a licensing scheme concerns only copyright and not Equitable Remuneration Right.

J. Can Plaintiff claim for licence fees based on Performers' Agreements With Plaintiff?

21. The Defendant is not a party to the Performers' Agreements With Plaintiff. Based on the doctrine of privity of contract (please see the Privy Council's judgment delivered by Lord Wilberforce in Kepong Prospecting Ltd & Ors v Schmidt [1968] 1 MLJ 170, at 174) –

- (1) the Defendant is not bound in any manner by the Performers' Agreements With Plaintiff; and
- (2) neither performers nor Plaintiff can enforce the Performers' Agreements With Plaintiff against Defendant. As such, both performers and Plaintiff cannot claim for any licence fees or any remuneration from Defendant pursuant to the Performers' Agreements With Plaintiff.

22. There is another reason why Performers' Agreements With Plaintiff cannot be enforced against Defendant in respect of Equitable Remuneration Right. Section 16B(3) CA envisages a contract between performers and Defendant (not the Plaintiff) regarding equitable remuneration for Defendant's Use. The enforcement of the Performers' Agreements With Plaintiff in This Action, in my view, will be contrary to the purpose of s 16B(3) CA (which provides for the right of performers to agree with the Defendant on more favourable terms and conditions regarding Equitable Remuneration Right).

K. Whether performers can claim for equitable remuneration for Defendant's Use

23. In this case, there is no contract between performers and Defendant regarding equitable remuneration for Defendant's Use. This triggers the application of s 16B(3A) CA wherein performers may apply to CT "to determine the amount payable as equitable remuneration". If an application is made by performers to CT under s 16B(3A) CA, the CT is duty bound under s 16B(3D) CA to "consider the matter and make such order as to the method of calculation and payment of equitable remuneration as it may determine to be reasonable in the circumstances, taking into account the importance of the contribution of the performer to the sound recording".

Until and unless CT has decided the quantum of equitable remuneration payable by Defendant to performers for Defendant's Use under s 16B(3A) CA, performers have no right under s 16B(3A) CA to claim for such an equitable remuneration. In this respect, I accept Ms. Chew's reliance on Augustine Paul's (as he then was) judgment in the High Court case of Hong Leong Finance Bhd v Rajandram [1998] 7 MLJ 409, at 417, as follows:

“It is also a rule of construction that conditions attached to a statutory right or benefit, which did not exist at common law as in this case, are mandatory. In this regard Statutory Interpretation by Bennion (7th Ed) says at p 32:

Where a legislation confers some right or benefit on a person which he would not have at common law, the conditions laid down as to the accrual of the right or benefit, unless purely formal, are mandatory. If they are not complied with the right or benefit will not accrue.”

(emphasis added).

To allow performers to claim for equitable remuneration for Defendant's Use without applying to CT to determine the amount of such an equitable remuneration, in my view, amounts to a circumvention of s 16B(3A) CA.

24. There is another reason why in the absence of an agreement between performers and Defendant regarding equitable remuneration for Defendant's Use, performers cannot file a suit to claim for such an equitable remuneration until the CT has decided on the quantum of such an equitable remuneration. This is because if the court proceeds to decide This Action, the court will be usurping the function of the CT as specifically provided by Parliament in ss 16B(3A), 16B(3D), 28(1) and 28(2)(a) CA. I rely on the following English cases:

- (1) in Pasmore v The Oswaldtwistle Urban District Council [1895-99] All ER Rep 191, at 193, Earl of Halsbury LC decided as follows in the House of Lords -

"... The principle that where a specific remedy is given by a statute, it thereby deprives the person who insists upon a remedy of any other form of remedy than that given by the statute, is one which is very familiar and which runs through the law."

(emphasis added); and

- (2) Asquith LJ (as he then was) held as follows in the Court of Appeal case of Wilkinson v Barking Corporation [1948] 1 All ER 564, at 567 –

"... It is undoubtedly good law that where a statute creates a right and, in plain language, gives a specific remedy or appoints a specific tribunal for its enforcement, a party seeking to enforce the right must resort to that remedy or that tribunal, and not to others."

(emphasis added).

The above 2 English cases have been followed by Gill FJ's (as he then was) judgment in the Federal Court case of Manggai v Government of Sarawak & Anor [1970] 2 MLJ 41, at 44-45.

L. Whether Plaintiff can claim for equitable remuneration for Defendant's Use

25. As explained in the above paragraphs 23 and 24, performers in this case cannot claim for equitable remuneration from Defendant for Defendant's Use. Consequently, the performers in This Action cannot assign Equitable Remuneration Right (regarding Defendant's Use) to Plaintiff. In the circumstances, the Plaintiff has no locus standi to file This Action. The following cases have explained the locus standi requirement:

(1) in the Supreme Court case of Government of Malaysia v Lim Kit Siang, United Engineers (M) Bhd v Lim Kit Siang [1988] 2 MLJ 12, at 27, Abdul Hamid CJ (Malaya) (as he then was) (in the majority judgment) decided as follows -

"Locus standi" is generally understood to mean the right of a party to appear and be heard by a tribunal. A litigant is said to have locus standi, in effect standing to sue in a court of law, if that court recognizes his or her ability to institute and maintain proceedings before it. The question of standing is thus separate and distinct from questions of the substantive merits and the legal capacity of the plaintiff. It follows, therefore, that a litigant may lack standing to bring a case which would succeed if brought by the right litigant.”

(emphasis added); and

- (2) Abdul Hamid Omar CJ (Malaya) (as he then was) decided as follows in the High Court case of Karpal Singh v Sultan of Selangor [1988] 1 MLJ 64, at 67 -

“There are various approaches which a court may adopt in deciding the question of locus standi. One approach is to ask whether the plaintiff has "a cause of action." Another approach is to determine whether the plaintiff can establish a "right" which the court may declare. Yet another approach is to require the plaintiff to demonstrate "a special injury" resulting from the subject matter of the declaration. A fourth approach requires the plaintiff to have an "interest" in the subject matter of the declaration to be litigated. A final approach leaves the question of standing to be determined by the court in the exercise of its discretion.”

(emphasis added).

26. For the purpose of deciding a striking out application, the court may assume that the contents of the SOC are true - please see the Court of Appeal’s judgment given by Mahadev Shankar JCA in Tuan Haji Ishak bin Ismail v Leong Hup Holdings Bhd & other appeals [1996] 1

MLJ 661, at 679. Even if this court assumes that the SOC is true, nevertheless the Plaintiff has no locus standi to file This Action and -

(1) it is plain and obvious that This Action should be struck out on one or more of the following grounds -

(a) This Action is frivolous and/or vexatious under Order 18 rule 19(1)(b) RC – please see Karpal Singh, at p. 68 (the High Court struck out the suit in this case on, among others, the ground that the plaintiff had no locus standi); and/or

(b) This Action constitutes an abuse of court process which should be struck out under Order 18 rule 19(1)(d), Order 92 rule 4 RC and/or the court's inherent jurisdiction – please see the Federal Court's judgment delivered by Abdul Malek Ahmad FCJ (as he then was) in Lembaga Kumpulan Wang Simpanan Pekerja v Kesatuan Kakitangan Lembaga Kumpulan Wang Simpanan Pekerja [2000] 3 MLJ 65, at 80;

(2) the Plaintiff's lack of locus standi to institute This Action is clear and need not be tried in this case. This is because the SOC and the Plaintiff's Affidavit do not disclose any right for the Plaintiff to file This Action; and

(3) in a striking out application, wherever possible, the court may exercise its discretionary power to amend the SOC (instead of striking out a SOC) – please see Mahadev Shankar JCA’s judgment in the Court of Appeal case of Muniandy s/o Subrayan & Ors v Chairman & Board Members of Koperasi Menara Maju Bhd [1997] 1 MLJ 557, at 560 and 561). This court has considered the possibility of allowing the Plaintiff to amend the SOC but the Plaintiff’s lack of locus standi to institute This Action cannot be “saved” by any amendment to the SOC.

27. I should clarify that the striking out of This Action by this court does not prejudice the performers because the performers still have a statutory right to apply to CT under s 16B(3A) CA to determine the amount payable by Defendant as equitable remuneration for Defendant’s Use. Once the CT has decided on the quantum of equitable remuneration payable by Defendant to performers for Defendant’s Use –

- (1) the Equitable Remuneration Right has accrued in favour of the performers as against the Defendant; and
- (2) as explained below, the Equitable Remuneration Right can be assigned by performers to Plaintiff.

M. Whether performers can assign Equitable Remuneration Right to Plaintiff

28. Ms. Chew has contended that performers cannot assign Equitable Remuneration Right to Plaintiff for the following reasons:

- (1) Equitable Remuneration Right is a statutory right provided by CA and can only be assigned in accordance with the provisions in CA. Section 27(1) CA provides for assignment of copyright and not assignment of Equitable Remuneration Right There is no provision in CA which allows a performer to assign Equitable Remuneration Right to any person;
 - (2) our CA does not have a provision equivalent to s 182D of the United Kingdom's Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988 [CDPA (UK)]. Section 182D(2) CDPA (UK) provides that Equitable Remuneration Right "may not be assigned by the performer except to a collecting society for the purpose of enabling it to enforce the right on his behalf"; and
 - (3) Equitable Remuneration Right under s 16B CA is only a "personal right" which can only be exercised by a performer and not by any other person (including Plaintiff).
29. With respect, I am not able to accede to the above submission. Assuming that the CT has determined the amount payable by Defendant to performers as equitable remuneration for Defendant's Use, I am of the view that performers may assign Equitable Remuneration Right to the Plaintiff. This decision is based on the following reasons:

(1) although s 27(1) CA provides for assignment of copyright, s 27 CA does not prohibit assignment of Equitable Remuneration Right. In fact, there is no prohibition of Equitable Remuneration Right in CA. In view of the fact that CA is silent on assignment of Equitable Remuneration Right, s 4(3) of the Civil Law Act 1956 (CLA) may apply. Section 4(3) CLA provides as follows -

“s 4(3) Any absolute assignment, by writing, under the hand of the assignor, not purporting to be by way of charge only, of any debt or other legal chose in action, of which express notice in writing has been given to the debtor, trustee or other person from whom the assignor would have been entitled to receive or claim the debt or chose in action, shall be, and be deemed to have been, effectual in law, subject to all equities which would have been entitled to priority over the right of the assignee under the law as it existed in the State before the date of the coming into force of this Act, to pass and transfer the legal right to the debt or chose in action, from the date of the notice, and all legal and other remedies for the same, and the power to give a good discharge for the same, without the concurrence of the assignor.”

(emphasis added).

Firstly, s 4(3) CLA is of general application. This is clear from the title to CLA (An Act relating to the civil law to be administered in Malaysia). There can be an absolute assignment of Equitable Remuneration Right if there is fulfilment of the following 3 cumulative conditions stipulated in s 4(3) CLA –

- (a) the assignment is an absolute one and is not by way of a charge;
- (b) the assignment is in writing; and
- (c) express notice of the assignment shall be given to Defendant.

- please see Gunn Chit Tuan SCJ's (as he then was) judgment in the Supreme Court case of Hipparion (M) Sdn Bhd v Chung Khiaw Bank Ltd [1989] 1 CLJ (Rep) 41, at 44, regarding the application of s 4(3) CLA.

The phrase "any debt or other legal chose in action" in s 4(3) CLA, in my view, is sufficiently wide to include Equitable Remuneration Right; or

- (2) if I have erred in applying s 4(3) CLA to assignments of Equitable Remuneration Right, I am of the alternative view that performers can assign Equitable Remuneration Right in Equity to Plaintiff (Equitable Assignment of Equitable Remuneration Right). This is because there is no Malaysian written law or case law which prohibits Equitable Assignment of Equitable Remuneration Right. Nor is there any policy consideration which militates against the recognition of Equitable Assignment of Equitable Remuneration Right by Malaysian courts. On the contrary, Malaysian case law has recognized equitable assignments (so far, not in respect of Equitable Remuneration Right). I rely on the Federal Court's judgment delivered by Peh Swee Chin FCJ in Khaw Poh Chhuan v Ng Gaik Peng & Ors [1996] 1 MLJ 761 (this case does not concern Equitable Remuneration Right). It was decided in Khaw Poh Chhuan, at p. 775, as follows –

“... In any event, compliance with s 4(3) [CLA] is not a pre-requisite to the validity of an assignment, which is to be determined in the usual ways. Even without complying with s 4(3), eg even without notice of the assignment to such debtors, for the sake of argument, the assignment would have been valid in equity in any event against the assignor.

The learned judge appears to be in error in suggesting as if there were two different distinct kinds of assignment, ie one in equity and one under s 4(3) [CLA], both assignments being mutually exclusive. Nothing is further from the truth. If an assignment is valid in law or legal (ie legally binding on the assignor), then it is valid or legal and compliance with s 4(3) is not essential to make it valid or legal as stated. Section 4(3) has not made any alteration in the law of assignment; it has merely made it easier for the assignee in one aspect in that the assignee can sue in his own name without sometimes having to borrow the name of the assignor or if the assignor is uncooperative, to join the assignor as a co-defendant.”

(emphasis added).

English cases have recognized equitable assignment of copyright. Suffice it to cite Harman J's judgment in the High Court case of Batjac Productions Inc v Simitar Entertainment (UK) Ltd & Anor [1996] FSR 139, at 149 and 151-152 –

“Finally, Miss Smith raised a further issue, submitting that the plaintiff had not properly constituted this action. She asserted that the plaintiff here, which - at the issue of its writ - undoubtedly only had equitable title to the copyright, could not obtain final judgment in an action upon that equitable title. So far, I think, there is no controversy. Further, counsel agree that the owner of an equitable title who has a cause of action for infringements of copyright can properly issue a writ and can obtain interlocutory relief; but the requirement of the law is that before final judgment for a perpetual injunction or for damages can be entered there must be a further improvement to the equitable title by the bringing in of the legal title.

Scott J., as he then was, in Weddell & Anor v JA Pearce & Major [1987] 3 All ER 624 is very much to the same effect. At p. 625 the propositions set out in the headnote, which are justified by the judgment, are as follows:

(2) An equitable assignee could sue another in his own right even though he could not recover damages or a perpetual injunction without joining as a party the assignor in whom legal title to the chose in action was vested. Furthermore, an action which was commenced by an equitable assignee without joining the assignor was not a nullity, although it could be liable to be stayed until the proper parties had been joined. On the facts, the plaintiffs' claim that immediately before the bankruptcy the defendants were liable to them in damages was an asset which vested in the trustee in bankruptcy and was assigned by him back to the plaintiffs on 7th February 1986 and the plaintiffs' entitlement as equitable assignees to bring an action to enforce their rights was no different from the entitlement of an equitable assignee to bring an action to recover a debt. It followed that the writ was not a nullity and, furthermore, the defect which would have prevented the plaintiffs obtaining judgment against the defendants was removed on 4 June 1986 when the assignment became a legal assignment.

That proposition shows that that learned judge was of the view that it was, as Peterson J. had said, entirely proper to give final judgment in favour of a person who had been merely an equitable owner of copyright at the time of issue of the writ but became entitled to the legal title in the copyright before judgment in the action by assignment of that copyright and of the preceding rights in action.”

(emphasis added).

In Hexagon Pty Ltd v Australian Broadcasting Commission (1975) 7 ALR 233, at 257, Needham J in the New South Wales' Supreme Court has recognized an equitable assignment of copyright.

If English and Australian case law has recognized equitable assignment of copyright, there is nothing in principle and policy for this court not to recognize Equitable Assignment of Equitable Remuneration Right. Furthermore, intellectual property (IP) rights may be recognized and enforced in different jurisdictions. It is therefore important, as far as possible, to ensure that Malaysian IP law does not differ materially from IP law in other jurisdictions.

N. Can Plaintiff claim for equitable remuneration in Plaintiff's own name without an assignment from performers?

30. In this case, even if assuming that CT has determined the amount of equitable remuneration payable by Defendant to performers for Defendant's Use, the performers have not assigned Equitable Remuneration Right to Plaintiff. The Performers' Agreements With Plaintiff cannot constitute an absolute assignment under s 4(3) CLA or an equitable assignment of Equitable Remuneration Right from performers to Plaintiff.
31. If there is no assignment of Equitable Remuneration Right by performers to Plaintiff, the Plaintiff has no right to commence This Action in the Plaintiff's own name – please see Khaw Poh Chhuan, at p. 775.
32. If CT has determined the amount of equitable remuneration payable by Defendant to performers for Defendant's Use and if there is a valid assignment of Equitable Remuneration Right by performers to Plaintiff, the Plaintiff may commence a suit to recover the sum of equitable remuneration from Defendant and this suit must join performers as co-plaintiffs – please see Batjac Productions.

33. It should be noted that s 255 of Singapore's Copyright Act has provided that the "right of a performer to bring an action may be assigned".

O. Court's decision

34. In summary –

(1) under CA -

- (a) copyright,
- (b) Performers' Right and
- (c) Equitable Remuneration Right
- are different from each other;

(2) performers cannot claim licence fees from Defendant for Defendant's Use. As such, performers cannot assign any right (to claim for licence fees regarding Defendant's Use) to Plaintiff;

(3) Plaintiff cannot claim for licence fees for Defendant's Use based on –

- (a) the Plaintiff's licensing scheme; or
- (b) Performers' Agreements With Plaintiff;

(4) as there is no contract between Defendant and performers regarding equitable remuneration payable by Defendant to performers for Defendant's Use and performers have yet to apply to CT under s

16B(3A) CA to determine the amount of such an equitable remuneration –

(a) performers cannot claim for equitable remuneration from Defendant for Defendant's Use; and

(b) performers cannot assign Equitable Remuneration Right to Plaintiff. Accordingly, the Plaintiff has no right to file This Action against the Defendant to claim for equitable remuneration regarding Defendant's Use; and

(5) if CT has decided on the quantum of equitable remuneration payable by Defendant to performers for Defendant's Use –

(a) the Equitable Remuneration Right can be assigned by performers to Plaintiff under s 4(3) CLA or by way of Equity; and

(b) if there is no assignment of Equitable Remuneration Right to Plaintiff, the Plaintiff has no right to commence This Action in the Plaintiff's own name.

35. Premised on the above reasons, This Application is allowed with costs of RM5,000.00 (Costs Sum) and an allocatur fee shall be imposed on the Costs Sum.

36. In closing, I must record my gratitude to both Ms. Chew and Mr. Manoharan for their detailed and persuasive submission, without which this judgment is not possible.
